CMPDD Receives national innovation award for work with Multicraft expansion resulting in 50 new jobs in Pelahatchie

Special to The Pelahatchie News

Central Mississippi Planning and Development District (CMPDD) received a national Innovation Award for work with the Town of Pelahatchie and Multicraft International on Multicraft's expansion in the Town's industrial park.

The National Association of Development Organizations (NADO), who presented the award, recognizes regional development organizations and partnering organizations for improving the economic and community competitiveness of the nation's regions and local communities. Award winners were showcased during NADO's 2015 Annual Training Conference, held October, 2015 in New Orleans.

"This innovation award is quite an honor," said Mitzi Stubbs, CMPDD development coordinator. "It shows what a company and mayor working together with an economic development organization are able to do with a common goal."

Multicraft International was selected as the manufacturer of a new product line, but they did not have the space to expand in their current building. Mayor Ross requested assistance from the CMPDD to work with the Town and Multicraft to review expansion options. Multicraft agreed to hire 50 new full-time employees and invest $375,000. Pelahatchie agreed to purchase the building for $634,160 in CAP loan funds and use it as matching funds. CMPDD completed an application and received approval of $1,000,000 in Community Development Block Grants (CDBG), Economic Development funds to complete the necessary parking lot and building improvements including, a new roof, electrical, HVAC and air compressor improvements.

Shown Mike Moak, CEO, and Mitzi Stubbs, Community and Economic Development Coordinator, CMPDD; Mayor Knox Ross, Jr.; and Dennis Rasberry, CFO, and Andrew Mallinson, CEO, Multicraft International, Inc., are shown with the award for all parties' involvement in securing funds for a Multicraft expansion which added 50 jobs in Pelahatchie. Bowman named STAR Student

By: Susie A. Wolfe

Maggie Bowman has been named as a STAR (Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition) Student for the 2015-2016 school year by the Mississippi Economic Council's M. B. Swayze Foundation, sponsor of the STAR program.

The Pelahatchie High School senior will be honored during the STAR Program at the annual Education Celebration on April 28 at the Jackson Convention Center.

For more information about the Mississippi Economic Council's STAR Student program, visit www.msmec.com/about-star.

Additional local support for the STAR program is provided by MEC members from communities across the state. STAR Students are selected on the basis of academic excellence. Both American College Test scores and scholastic averages are compared to determine the school's STAR Student, explained Vickie Powell of Jackson, Senior Vice President Foundations. "The STAR program encourages and promotes academic achievement among Mississippi's high school seniors," she said. Each STAR Student is asked to designate a STAR Teacher, the teacher who has made the greatest contribution to the student's scholastic achievement. Mrs. Eles Renfroe was designated STAR Teacher.

Over 500 STAR Students and STAR Teachers will receive recognition from MEC's Swayze Foundation at the Education Celebration. The top 20 STAR Students -- ALL-STAR Scholars -- and their STAR Teachers will be presented scholarship awards provided by the Kelly Gene Cook, Sr. Charitable Foundation. The highlight of the Education Celebration will be the naming of the Mississippi ALL-STAR Student for 2015-2016 school year, winner of the coveted $24,000 Cook Foundation scholarship and teacher awards.

Additionally, entering freshman who attend Mississippi State, who have been selected as the STAR Student of their high school, are eligible to receive a $6,000 scholarship and students attending Ole Miss are eligible to receive a $8,000 ($2,000/year) scholarship.

Coach Fairly gives everything to Lady Chiefs' basketball

By: Stephanie Goss

"The best teams are the ones who work and play their hardest when they're tired." These are the words of Coach Pearlina Fairley of the Pelahatchie High School Lady Chiefs' basketball team. A graduate of Pelahatchie High School, Fairley went on to play collegiate basketball at Hinds Community College and Alabama A&M on a full scholarship and received a bachelor's degree. She later continued her education by earning a Master's at Jackson State University.

Her coaching career began at Birmingham City Middle School, an inner city school in Alabama. That year her team went to the championship game, with a final record of 14-1 (minus one forfeit). Afterwards, Fairley returned to Mississippi and took an assistant coaching job at Northwest Rankin Middle School, where she spent the next five years. Her career came to a crossroads at that point. Fairley was skeptical about returning to her hometown of Pelahatchie, but knew that she needed to pursue her passion of coaching by going to the next level. She loved Pelahatchie, but said some coaches find it difficult to coach in their hometowns. She finally decided to come home in 2011 as head coach of the Lady Chiefs' basketball program. She is grateful for the opportunity former principal Shane Sanders gave her.

Fairley blasted out of the gates her first year and made it to the second round of playoffs. Although her first year was successful, she found it difficult to coach a team that was used to a certain way of doing things. She hit a snag the next year when her team had a disappointing record of eight wins and 20 losses. With an ambitious optimism, Coach Fairley told the girls that if they would stick with her, she would turn the program around. She had a vision of winning a championship, and her dream was realized in the 2014-2015 season, when she led the Lady Chiefs to win the state championship game. The Lady Chiefs also made it to the state semi-finals in 2016.

Fairley still has the desire to have championship-quality teams. She wants to continue to win games, build a fan base and to develop talent in her players. She has aspirations of community involvement through a quality youth basketball program and facility. She believes a worthy program would be extremely beneficial to her program. The building of a gym or community center dedicated to teaching fundamentals and basic skills would greatly increase the possibility of successful basketball programs in the future.

Basketball has always been a great love of Coach Fairley's. Her desire to be a coach surfaced as her passion for basketball intensified throughout her high school and collegiate careers. She also observed some coaches who could have taken more time with their players. She could have tried out for

Legislative updates: ups and downs mark first months of 2016 session

By: Tom Miles, State Representative, House District #75

The first months of the 2016 Legislative session have been anything but boring as we've worked through committee and floor deadlines, and considered budget and revenue measures.

You may have read that the state's income for FY 2017 is estimated to be some $100 million short of the mark of achieving all of the appropriation goals we had seen proposed last fall. We are working hard to make the difference in the budget process that will be fair to everyone involved.

Some serious discussion is currently underway about how to address crumbling roads and bridges throughout the state. Members have proposed increasing our flat gasoline tax to pay for the repairs and maintenance, among other ideas. This would mean that those who use the roads would "pay" for the improvements. There is not much sentiment for any kind of tax increase, although it is widely recognized that without more income, we will not be able to seriously address the problem in time to stop the daman overseas team and continued playing, but instead chose to coach. She takes the time to build lasting relationships with her players. She even "schools" them in shootouts and free throw competitions, proving that to be a great shooter a player needs hard work and dedication. Repetition and muscle memory can only come when the player has those attributes. She is the type of coach who scaffolds not only better players, but better people. In her players, she looks for a positive attitude that is diverted in the right direction toward what she asks them to endure. She asks them to be dedicated and motivated people of utmost character. Some players come in thinking that shooting is what Coach Fairley looks for, but she tells her players that "defense is not an option" on her team. In order to play for her, you have to be able to play a defensive game.

Despite all her success, Coach Fairley is quite humble. She is quick to point out the secrets to her success – community and parental support, hard work and dedication, and Coach Green. Her assistant came in during the 2014-2015 season as a paraprofessional volunteer. Having played with Coach Fairley at Hinds, Coach Green fit right in with the team. She sacrificed countless hours scouting teams and preparing the girls for the teams they would face. Fairley says it is wonderful having the teamwork with Green, a God-fearing woman who loves the girls as if they are her own. Coach Fairley attributes a lot of the credit for the success of the program in recent years to her assistant, who is now paid. She and Coach Green teach the girls to "let your faith be bigger than your fears."

Coach Fairley would like for her legacy to be that she gave everything she had and left no stone unturned to the program in the most humble way possible.

Summer is approaching

By: Dr. Bryan Marshall, Pelahatchie High School Principal

Well, it is that time of year again. School is almost out, and the summer is upon us. Spring is in the air, and the kids are restless in the class. This is the time of year that is very hard for students to focus and to stay the course.

The dreaded end of the year assessments will be starting soon-- the stress of testing season will surely make each of us long for summer vacation. However, we must stay focused and stay the course. Our school and our community deserve to see success within the state accountability system, and we can and WILL make the grade.

For those junior students, the ACT assessment is quickly approaching - April 19. We hosted an ACT review session on March 30 after school, and we will send all juniors to the Richland Community Center for a second review session on April 13.

For all the students that scored a 22 or higher, we will honor them for this achievement at Brandon High on April 14 at 9 a.m. Next up is the 7th and 8th grade Maps test for English Language Arts on April 26 and 27, followed by the 7th and 8th grade Maps assessment for Math on April 28 and 29. Finally, the last junior high test is 8th grade science on May 3.

Then starts high school testing for English II on May 4 and 5, followed by Algebra I on May 10 and 11. May 12, we will test Biology, and May 13 we finish the testing season with U.S. History. WHEEEEW, that seems like a lot of tests. We will be prepared, and our students will do well. Parents, please remember these dates, and make sure to stress the importance of each assessment with your children.

For many of you, this is the last year of high school for your kids, and let me tell you, without a doubt, they have been a pleasure to have in school at Pelahatchie High. They have represented the school and the community well, and each of them have bright futures ahead.

As the school year comes quickly to an end, let us celebrate the many achievements that have honored Pelahatchie High, and, in turn, honored the Pelahatchie community. From U.S. News and World Report Bronze Level school, to the PREPS awards for ELA and Biology I, and the National Beta Club School of Merit, to name a few.

We intend to earn many more next year, and we look forward to the continued partnership between the teachers, parents, students, and the community to make all these things possible.

Parents, grandparents, aunts, uncles, help us keep students focused, and let's see how high our community and school can fly. GO CHIEFS!!!

MDOT to host Eighth Annual Safety Fair on April 9

Special to The Pelahatchie News

The Mississippi Department of Transportation (MDOT) will host the Eighth Annual Safety Fair on Saturday, April 9. The free event will be held at the Mississippi Trade Mart on the Fairgrounds in Jackson from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. and is open to the public.

Parents and children of all ages will be able to participate in fun and educational activities in efforts to increase awareness in areas of child passenger safety, dangers of distracted driving and general safety for motorists and pedestrians. Along with MDOT's virtual distracted driving simulator, other popular attractions will return to the event this year. The safety rollover demonstration ("Rover"), the impaired driving simulator and the low-speed head-on collision simulator called the "Convincer" will all be a part of the effort to engage parents and kids in new, fun activities that encourage safe driving practices and overall safety on Mississippi's roadways.

In an activity to promote seat belt safety, DREAM Inc. will be hosting the "Rock the Belt" program. This quick-click challenge will group kids in teams of four to compete in a race to get all members of the team buckled in a car the fastest. The team with the fastest time wins the challenge! Children will also have an opportunity to speak to emergency medical technicians from American Medical Response and tour a real ambulance. For child passenger safety, Safe Kids MS will have certified car seat technicians on-site to inspect and properly install child safety seats free of charge. For larger truck safety, The Wal-Mart Committed to Safety Program will offer safety demonstrations with an on-site semi-truck.

The Bike Rodeo will be led by Mississippi Safe Routes to School (SRTS) and the Mississippi Department of Health to demonstrate bicycle safety tips to kids and bike riders. SRTS will also provide information identifying safe routes for children traveling to and from school and hand out certificates to all children who complete the bicycle safety course. All Bike Rodeo participants receive a free bicycle helmet while supplies last and may enter a drawing to win a free bike.

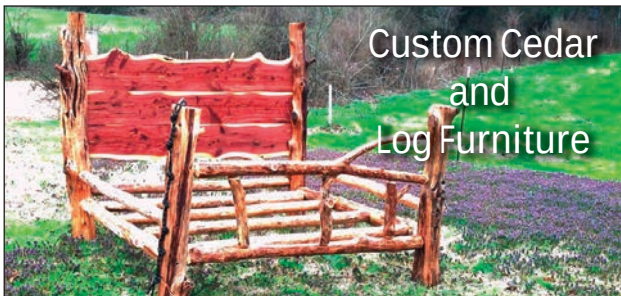

Along with concessions, there will also be a rock climbing wall, face painting and a space jump. Fair attendees can also experience the ever-popular "Bike Smoothie Maker," where participants can ride a stationary bike to power a blender and make their own fruit smoothies.

The Safety Fair is sponsored by MDOT, in partnership with Safe Kids Mississippi; American Association of Retired Persons; American Medical Response; Batson Children's Hospital; Brain Injury Association of Mississippi; DREAM Inc.; Mississippi Department of Health; Mississippi Department of Rehabilitation Services; Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks; Mississippi Trucking Association; MoToSteps Motorcycle Safety Training; Safe Routes to School; and Wal-Mart's Committed to Safety Program.

Holmes Community College students Taylor Adcock of Sallis, Kristin Alexander of Vaughan, Mallory Corley of Pelahatchie, Amina Jatoui of Ridgeland, Etta Jennings of Grenada, and Abby Vance of Grenada were honored at the All-Mississippi Community College Academic Team Recognition Luncheon on March 22.

Held at the Jackson Convention Center, the luncheon recognized those students named to both the All-Mississippi First Team and Second Team. Adcock was named First Team, meaning she received a $1,000 scholarship provided by the Mississippi Association of Community and Junior Colleges. The other five honorees were all named Second Team.

The program was established by the Mississippi Association for Community and Junior Colleges, the Mississippi Community College Board, and Phi Theta Kappa Honor Society. Nominations are based on outstanding academic performance and service to the college and community.

Corley, a student on the Ridgeland Campus, is president of the Alpha Lambda Sigma Chapter of Phi Theta Kappa. She is also the current Miss Holmes for the Ridgeland Campus, an Ambassador, and was Student Body Maid for Homecoming 2015.

She plans to receive a degree in marketing in May 2016 and attend the University of Mississippi in the fall, majoring in Integrated Marketing Communications. After completing her bachelor's, Corley plans to pursue a master's degree and find a job with a large corporation in a big city. She also dreams of one day opening an orphanage for girls who have fallen victim to sex trafficking.

Corley volunteers with Hope Hollow, Horses for Handicap and Ride-Ability. She also currently owns her own business with Arbonne International, a health and wellness company. Corley babysits regularly and helps with the work on her family's farm, feeding and caring for animals. She is also a competitive barrel racer and has won a Champion Buckle in Girls' Bullriding.

Brewer Healthcare operates in "the best town in the world"

By Susie A. Wolfe

Linda Brewer has owned and operated Brewer Healthcare for six years, specializing in family and geriatric nurse practice. She treats all ages, including "the most precious elderly."

"The Japanese have it right in the way they treat the elderly," said Brewer. "We could learn a lot from them."

Originally from Mars Hill in Amite County, Brewer is a former cardiovascular clinical nurse specialist. She said she sees a lot of high blood pressure and diabetes in her work, but said that there are a few things that everyone can do to improve their health with immediate results: eat a low carb diet and start a daily walking program.

"If you put those two things in practice," said Brewer, "you will reap the benefits immediately of more energy, better sleep and improved mood."

Brewer said that Pelahatchie is her adopted hometown. She has lived in the town 20 years and feels it is "the best town in the world."

"Pelahatchie is the closest to the real Mayberry," she said. "The people are real and genuine. They really care about each other."

Brewer said that the reason her practice is successful is that she and her three employees treat everyone like they would like you to treat their mama. "You just can't go wrong with that."

age.

I was very proud that we were able to straighten out language to make sure law enforcement and first responders who die as a result of their jobs receive the $100,000 death benefit we passed during the previous term. The original bill said if the individual "was killed" in the line of duty, the benefit would apply. Unfortunately, last year we had a situation where a young firefighter inhaled too much smoke, but was able to go home after responding to the fire. He got into breathing distress later that night and subsequently died from the injury to his lungs. So, we changed the language to address a situation like his, and I am glad we were able to do this for those who risk everything for us.

Some other bills that we have passed so far in the process to the Senate for consideration:

- House Bill 1523 creates the Religious Liberties Accommodation Act and states that pastors, faith-based healthcare institutions and schools and circuit clerks who hold certain religious and moral beliefs are entitled to protection against discrimination for holding these beliefs.
- House Bill 553 increases the penalty for human trafficking. The proposed enhancement for those convicted of human trafficking crimes would be life in prison or fines no less than $100,000 and no more than $500,000.

The Mississippi Main Street Investment Act has once again passed the House. I have sponsored this bill for the last 3 years am proud to sponsor again this year. This measure establishes a loan program from the Mississippi Development Authority for small municipalities with populations of 15,000 or less. These loans will allow the municipalities to revitalize downtown areas through infrastructure repair and restoring downtown business districts. Funds realized from the municipalities becoming revitalized will go toward repaying the loans. Let's hope the Senate will concur this year, and this idea will become a reality.

We were blessed with the presence of some very enthusiastic students from Pelahatchie High School at FFA day at the Capitol and the FFA Breakfast. I am always so proud to show our young people their State Capitol and encourage them that if I can be here, any one of them can be here, too. They made us all proud.

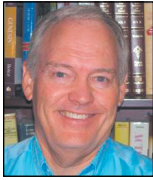

As you probably know, public education continues to be a topic of high discussion in the halls of the Capitol. In this area, we are blessed with great public schools that achieve well despite tight budgets and the difficulties of operating in buildings that need help. Of course, the shortage of income has once again hit schools the hardest. And discussions of offering tax breaks and giveaways to corporations makes people even more anxious that our schools will never be given the money they should receive. Add to that the insistence by some legislators that they know how to teach better than professional educators, and we have a real problem on our hands. Some of my colleagues and I are thinking of hosting open meetings on the state of public education in Mississippi over the summer months. While I certainly don't have all of the answers myself, I've always been a big believer in the idea that wisdom comes with many advisors, as it says in Proverbs 15:22. I will let you know when and if these meetings happen. Feel free to let me know if you are interested.

Thanks for giving me the opportunity to serve as your Voice in the Legislature. Please feel free to reach out to me anytime by emailing me at atmmiles@house.ms.gov or 601-469-7886.

Pastor's perspective: reflections on my new puppy

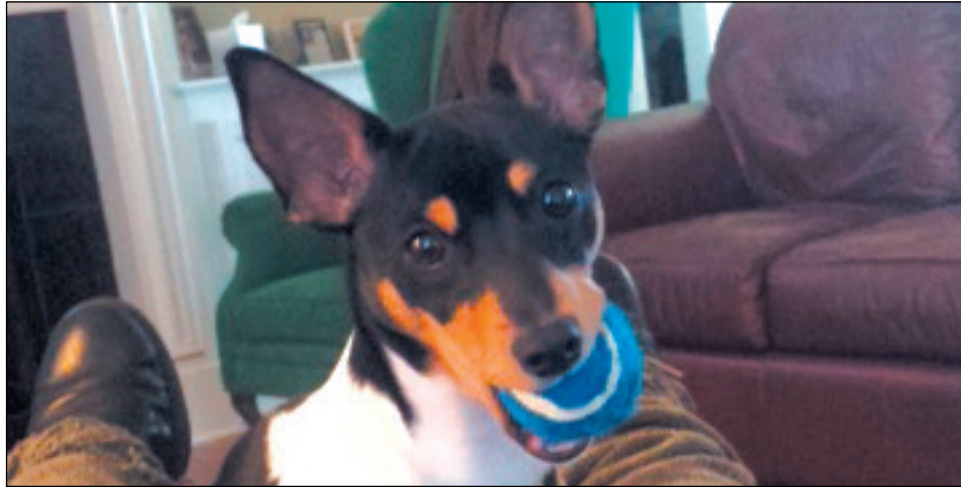

By: John Vaughn, Pastor,
Cross Roads Baptist Church in Pelahatchie

We have a new puppy at our house. She is a Teddy Roosevelt Terrier, and her name is Bella. Bella is proving to be a great addition to our family. She is a very smart puppy and loves to please us. She also loves to go outside and play ball. I have been taking advantage of her enthusiasm to teach her some obedience commands.

She loves to play ball. I throw a tennis ball across the yard. When I throw it, I tell her to "fetch." She takes off chasing the ball across the yard. Sometimes, she runs out ahead of the ball and waits for it like a baseball center fielder! When she gets the ball, I call out the command "bring" so that she knows that I want her to bring the ball back to me. When she gets to me with the ball, the command is "sit." Then I tell her "drop" so that she leaves the ball on the ground at my feet.

Fetch. Bring. Sit. Drop.

When she does well, I always reward her with a treat. That serves as an incentive for her to follow the commands. She has learned the routine pretty well and most of the time does those things even when I do not say the commands.

But, even though she knows exactly what I want her to do, sometimes she loses focus and does something else. She may be distracted by a bird that flutters by, and she runs off chasing it. Or our other dog may come running up, and she decides to play with him for a while.

Sometimes, she stops to take care of a little "personal business." She may notice someone walking on the road and run to the fence to bark at them. So, even though she knows what she is supposed to do, and usually does exactly what I expect, there are a number of things that can get her attention and take her focus off of what she is supposed to be doing, which is fetch, bring, sit and drop.

Of course, when she gets distracted, I always call out her name to get her attention and get her back on task. She usually responds and comes to me with the ball. And when she does, I always reward her obedience.

I think those of us who are Christians are a lot like Bella. We know that God has things He wants us to do. His general commands are actually written down for us! And there are specific things that He wants each one of us to do personally. We know what God wants from us, and perhaps most of the time we live in obedience to Him.

But there are times when we get distracted by temptation, or we want to chase after our own desires, or we decide to just do our own thing for a while. We lose focus, and our attention is placed on something other than what we know God's will is for us. We know what He wants, but we chose to do something else.

God is patient with us, and calls us back to obedience. If we listen, we can hear Him calling out our name. When we do return to Him, He is always waiting for us and blesses our lives for being obedient.

Bella has provided a great deal of joy to us. And God delights when His children live to please Him. If you know Christ, then stay focused on what He wants you to do in life. Be obedient to His commands and His will for your life. If you have lost focus or you are living apart from Him, listen, and you will hear Him calling out your name. Come back to Him; be obedient, and He will surely bless your life!

Be sure to go to Church on Sunday, and take your family with you!

Business Spotlight: Crooked Creek stays on top of the latest in animal care

By Susie A. Wolfe

With around a third of U.S. households owning pets, it is important to stay on top of the latest in animal care.

Crooked Creek Animal Hospital is a mixed animal practice operated by doctors Charles Edwards and Stacey Rhodes since 1999. Thirty-five to forty percent of their business is large animals including cows, horses, goats, sheep, and even a camel. Smaller animals include dogs and cats, and the popular backyard chickens and potbellied pigs.

The animal hospital, members of the Mississippi Veterinary Medical Association and the American Veterinary Medical Association, offers services include boarding, dentistry, diet / behavior, digital radiology, emergency, geriatrics, surgery, ultrasound and pharmacy. They also offer preventative care, microchipping, large animal, skin care/flea and tick preventives, and wellness programs.

Crooked Creek began in the white house on Mimosa Drive in Spring 2000 and is now located on Shiloh Road. They started their practice with four people and currently employ 16 full and part-time.

Dr. Daniel Plunkett, who specializes in small animal internal medicine and small animal surgery, works part-time, and a new associate, Bayard Gillis of Brookhaven, will be starting June 1.

Dr. Edwards, who grew up on a poultry and cattle farm in rural Scott County, specializes in large animal care. He and his wife, Carlotta, operate their own beef cow/calf herd in Rankin and Scott counties, with 100 head of mixed breed beef cows.

They also have a number of animals of their own, including two Manx cats, a mixed breed beagle, a Chihuahua, a miniature Pincher and two sheep, plus 60 backyard chickens.

Dr. Rhodes is a Pelahatchie native, who with husband, Kurt, have three children, Trevor, Peyton and Trey. She specializes in small animal medicine as well as equine medicine.

Crooked Creek seeks to stay updated on all issues that affect animals in the area. For example, antibiotic use in food producing animals is a hot issue. This Veterinary Feed Directive has been implemented by the Food and Drug Administration and involves the use of antibiotics in animal feedstuffs. Producers must have a Valid Client Patient Relationship with their veterinarian before they can purchase or have any drug or combination drug added to animal feeds. This would come in the form of a VFD Order or a Prescription from a licensed veterinarian. This VFD Directive goes into effect January 2017.

Another issue that dog owners are facing is Canine Influenza Virus. It is a highly contagious respiratory disease that is caused by Canine Influenza Virus type A. There are two known strains in the U.S. Neither virus is infectious to humans, but, as with human influenza, the best protection against canine influenza is vaccination. It's also important to note that canine influenza is not seasonal like the human flu. It is spread the same way as the common cold in humans.

For more information on these issues or to ask about any animal question, visit www.crookedcreekanimal.com or call 601-854-7808.

Multicraft, innovation multiplied through people and technology

By: Susie A. Wolfe

The people and technology at Multicraft International, Pelahatchie's international automotive component supplier, are the 38-year-old company's secret to success--Multicraft components are used on more than 10 vehicle brands and in more than 30 current model vehicles.

"At Multicraft, we differentiate ourselves by the attitude of our most valuable resource, our people," said CEO Andrew Mallinson. "They embody our values, operate our business processes and provide world-class performance to continuously improve our profitability and that of our customers."

Mallinson announced new appointments effective March 30 of Brad Williams as President Multicraft International, Paul Jones as President Multicraft Ventures and Dennis Rasberry, Executive Vice President and CFO of both businesses.

Twenty-one of the 110 employees have been with the company more than 20 years, and 50 employees have 10 years or more of service. Longevity of the company's leadership that help to maintain stability within the workforce include Jennifer Bowman, 34 years of service; Dennis Rasberry, 33 years;

Brad Williams, 24 years, Joe Ashker, 22 years; Karen Yount, 21 years and Paul Jones, 20 years.

"Multicraft is proud to innovate solutions internationally for brands, companies and products across the globe," said Mallinson.

Innovation is supported through Multicraft's strong engineering and in-house capabilities such as: 3D CAD, Rapid 3D printing, full service tool room, and test facilities. The company can produce more than 7,000 automotive switches per hour—that is a switch every half-second. They make 40,000 parts for 15 Chrysler locations, said Joe Ashker, materials manager. There are 12 parts in the glove box light, alone.

Chris Kennedy, production manager, said that the facility operates on four 10-hour days, and leaves Fridays for emergencies, repairs, etc. Planning is key to keep the automotive plants running, including using technology to go into customers' systems to verify parts supply to know when to ship. Downtime costs money, and that's something they avoid, said Ashker.

For more information on Multicraft International, visit the company's award-winning web site at www.multicraft.com.
